

Put Down Roots in Tualatin Volunteer Opportunity

City of Tualatin

Make a Splash and Make a Difference!

Be environmental super heroes for the day! Enhance stream health and habitat at Hedges Creek Wetlands by eradicating litter, slaying Himalayan blackberry, annihilating English ivy, and restoring the habitat by planting native trees and shrubs.

- Stream health and habitat diversity are the goals of this project.
- Boat, tools, gloves, and snacks are provided.
- City staff will guide the project and include team building activities, habitat information and site history. Project can accommodate up to 40.
