

Put Down Roots in Tualatin Group Volunteer Opportunity

City of Tualatin

Over the River and Through the Woods!

Make a huge environmental impact as you work among the flora and fauna along the Tualatin River at Browns Ferry Park. Remove invasive English ivy and Himalayan blackberry and restore the habitat by planting native trees and shrubs.

- Tools, plants, gloves, and snacks are provided.
- Groups have use of the Community Center for lunch and meetings.
- City staff will guide the project and include team building activities, habitat information and site history. Project accommodates up to 40.
- Stream health and habitat diversity are the goals of this project.
